Urban Artist Market Plans November 13-14 Holiday Artisan Show in Addison

ADDISON, TEXAS

The Urban Artist Market plans a holiday show on November 13-14, 2021, at the Dallas/Addison Marriott Quorum by the Galleria. The indoor curated show features the work of more than 75 regional artisans and their distinctive, one-of-a-kind creations in 2D painting, ceramics, pottery, mosaic, stained and fused glass, fiber art, book art, photography, sculpture, jewelry, collage, mixed media and much, much more.

"Original art and creative expression build the local economy," said Producer Christopher J. Miller. "After a challenging 2021, I'm thrilled to be returning the show to Addison, directly on the service road of the North Dallas Tollway at the Beltline exit." The Addison show takes place within 15 miles of Frisco, Highland Park, North Dallas, Richardson, University Park, and Plano.

Register for free admission by visiting urbanartistmarket.com before November 1, 2021. After November 1, $10 admission tickets can be ordered or purchased at the door. Children under 12 and adults over 65 are admitted free. Self-Parking is $5.

The Urban Artist Market was the first local art event to produce a COVID-aware event last year. The Dallas/Addison Marriott Quorum by the Galleria will continue in these footsteps by following the highest standards in safety and sanitation protocols.

The Urban Artist Market pivoted in 2020 by providing online gallery space to their artists and expanding their business model. Artists can sell their work 24/7 nationally online and choose to participate in live shows.

"We wanted to focus on our core mission," said Miller. "Providing our artists with the opportunity to sell their work and receive recognition for their talent." Artists can find details for exhibitor registration by visiting our website.
